ADN to MSN Fall 2021 Nursing Scholarships

The College of Education and Health Sciences is offering $1000 Nursing Scholarships for the Associate Degree in Nursing (ADN) to Masters of Science in Nursing (MSN) program for Fall 2021. Scholarships will be awarded to qualified newly admitted students in the ADN to MSN pathway in the School of Nursing on a competitive basis. The intent of this scholarship is to support qualified newly admitted students with expenses up to $1000 in this degree pathway.

Eligibility: Only students who will be enrolled full-time (as defined by the ADN to MSN program) for fall semester (2021) are eligible.

Applicants must also:

- Be a U.S. citizen or permanent resident; and
- Have a GPA of ≥ 2.75 .

Scholarship Requirement:

Please submit documents via email to:

Natalie Cvetic-Jones
Recruitment and Program Manager
Office of Admissions
Touro University California
ncvetic@touro.edu

These materials will be forwarded to a Selection Committee for scholarship recipient determination.

Selection Criteria: Based on the application requirements

Application deadline: July 14, 2021

Mission of CEHS: With social justice as a framework for reducing disparities, the College of Education and Health Sciences is committed to the promotion of the health and well-being of local and global communities. This will be accomplished through education, service, and research and with a focus on justice and equity.

Important funding information:

For students who will have already borrowed loans up to their total cost of attendance for the 21-22 award year, the scholarship awarded will decrease the total loans borrowed. The scholarship in this case would not create additional living expense funds.
