2015 Hero Awards

Criteria for Selection:

The purpose of the awards is to honor students, alumni, and community members who have demonstrated significant contributions and commitment to public health service and research. This award will be given to individuals for distinguished activities which support the Public Health Program's mission "to promote the health and well being of local and global communities through education, service, and research with a focus on underserved populations." Award selection criteria includes individuals who demonstrate outstanding leadership on public health issues, community service (domestic or international) and or active involvement in relevant public health research. Please visit our Hero Awards webpage for more information or call 707/638.5838.

About the Award:

The Public Health Hero Award was originally established in 2007 in conjunction with the Day of Compassion. Since 2010, the Public Health Hero Awards have been aligned with National Public Health Week. Award recipients will be honored at the April 7th Public Health Hero Awards Reception.
